Wed, 27 Dec 2017 18:10:00 GMT Upper half-plane formulas - Stanford University - model via an isometric mapping of the disk to the half plane. It is convenient to use the complex variables $z=x+iy$ and $w=u+iv$. We use the notation $w=u+iv$ for the conjugate complex. Proposition 7.1 (Isometric mapping of the half-plane to the disk). The linear fractional function (7.1) $w=i \frac{1-z}{1+z}$ is a conformal mapping, and a bijection from $\mathbb{C}^{\hat{a}}\{\hat{a}^{\check{z}}\}$ to $\mathbb{C}^{\hat{a}}\{\hat{a}^{\check{z}}\}$. Similar translation tables exist on modern ARM (Cortex-A) processors too, with small differences in size and property bits. One significant difference to x86-64 is that ARM CPUs have two registers to store physical addresses of translation tables (TTBR0 and TTBR1).
